As part of their 50th anniversary celebrations, the Philosophy of Education Society of Great Britain (PESGB) announces an exciting film-making competition. The PESGB is inviting children and young people to make a short film about education, both in and out of school. Your film will tell the audience:

• what education means to you
• why education is (or isn’t) important
• what the point of education should be
• what you think education should be like

For details of how to enter: www.philosophy-of-education.org or email pesgb@sasevents.co.uk

Winners will be awarded some fantastic film equipment for their school, group or organisation. All shortlisted entries will be shown at a film screening in a cinema. Winners and runners-up will have also their films displayed on the PESGB website.

The films will be judged by a panel of education and film experts.

DEADLINE
Entries must be received by: 5 October 2015

CATEGORIES
Under 11 years | 11-18 years | 18-25 years

DEADLINE
Monday 5 October 2015

BRIEF
What do you value about your education?
Is education important?
Does education matter for society?
What would it be like if we didn’t have schools?